

Is it better to get money than enjoy your job?

(Introduction) Sometimes people do not like their jobs because they do not feel comfortable working in that area. I think it is important to enjoy what you are doing, because in that way you can be more productive on your job, you can manage your stress in the best way, and you can grow in the company.

(Body) First of all, I strongly believe that working on something that you enjoy, makes you happy, because you see it, not only as a responsibility, but also a hobby. As we feel happy doing what we like, we transmit it, and we are able to create a better environment with our coworkers or clients.

furthermore, we get passionate when we are doing what we like, what makes us do it in the best way possible. For instance, my friend, a painter who enjoys his work, puts all the effort in every single part of his job, and that makes his pieces of art awesome and unique.

Finally, I think that at the end of the day, money is not as important as having a great job or doing what you like. We cannot waste our time doing something just to earn a lot of money; There are things that are priceless when it comes to our ways to spend our time. Sometimes, money does not give you the satisfaction or well-being that you are looking for.

(Closing) To conclude, I prefer working in a job with the things I really want to do instead of getting money from a job that I do not like or I am getting bored every time that I am in there, because money won't give me happiness.
